Gentlemen:

Scientific and technical translations made by us have been furnished to the Library of Congress and by them to the Translation Center of the Special Libraries Association at the John Crerar Library, 86 East Randolph Street, Chicago, Illinois. They may be readily procured from the latter.

These translations have been regularly listed in the Crerar publication Translation Monthly which is a listing of translations available and published at Crerar Library. We believe that they maintain an extensive index going back to 1949.

Very truly yours,

Executive Officer

Gentlemen:

In the February 13, 1958 issued of "The Iron Age" magazine there was an announcement that your bureau had translated a great many technical articles from Russian publications and that they were available to the public. We are in the continuous casting business and we know that the Russians have been doing a great deal of work in this field. I would like to find out if there have been any translations made of articles in this field.

Could you tell me how I could obtain this information? Do you by any chance have an index of the technical articles which you have translated? If there are any articles on the subject, how would I go about obtaining them? Is there any charge for these articles?

Thank you very much for any assistance which you can give us in this matter.

Very truly yours,

CONTINUOUS METALCAST CO., INC.
